Action and Reaction

The principle of action and reaction means that an actor who is in dialogue and/or in another (pantomime) interaction with another actor may only say one thing or act out one unambiguous action, and then wait for the expression, the behavior of the acting partner. For the further development of the structure and the service in the scene will be clear.

Action/reaction can be practiced in the exercise "Step by step".